

Wagtail UK limited, Managing Director, Collin Singer

Collin served in the Royal Air Force Police for nearly 24 years as a dog handler. He served worldwide including Northern Ireland, Germany, the Falkland Islands and Cyprus. He has been involved with the training of dogs from the United States Air Force, British Civil Police, British Transport Police, Army, Navy and HM Customs. Collins last tour in the RAF was 3 year posting in Cyprus where he the manger and supervisor of a 17 strength Army/RAF Dog Section. During a 6 year operational tour with the Provost & Security services he was engaged on Firearms and Explosive Detection Dog services covering major military and civil events throughout the whole of the UK.

In January 2003 Collin formed Wagtail UK Limited and has seen Wagtail rapidly develop in to one of the UK's leading suppliers of Specialist dogs both in the UK and an international basis.

Wagtail UK provides dogs for the UK Military and UK Police Forces and currently have partnerships or associations with UK Civil Police, Fire Services, Royal Air Force Search and Rescue and Global Rescue Services. Wagtail UK is currently carrying out a number of operational explosive detection dog searches at high-profile venues in London.

Wagtail supply and train Security/Protection dogs and handlers as well as running courses for search dog handlers. Wagtail is a British Institute of Professional Dog Trainers (BIPDT) accredited training centre. All handlers attending courses will be independently assessed by a BIPDT assessor.

Wagtail UK has supplied a number of dogs to clients in the Middle East, Mainland Europe. It also has clients in the Far East and a number of high-profile clients in the United States. Following a highly successful seminar delivered to the Singapore Police and Armed Forces in February 2007, Wagtail have recently opened an office in Singapore.